

How to use: V-Audios

In these videos, you can hear the text from Words in context spoken by a native speaker and illustrated by various pictures.

Different people often prefer different ways to learn new words. What is your best way to learn?

Some people find it easier to understand and learn with visual aids, while others need to hear words in order to remember them. Others still prefer the combination of written text, visuals and audios.

V-Audios can thus help you find your best way of learning important words by offering new words in context as audio files supported by picture material – in addition to the printed text in your student's book.

They also help you with the correct pronunciation of the new words and phrases as you can listen to a native speaker saying them.